2 GCI escapees captured after 6 hours

BELLE GLADE - Freedom was six hours of hot, muddy hiding from dozens of searchers in prickly weeds Tuesday for a pair of Glades Correctional Institution escapees.

Israel Diaz, 28, serving a 15 year sentence for attempted second-degree murder in Dade County, and Lazaro Martinez, 24, doing 12 years in eight concurrent sentences for burglary and grand theft, are facing additional time now for escape.

Diaz and Martinez slipped away from a 35-man work crew about 11 a.m. Tuesday while they were cutting weeds along a fence line in a field just west of the Glades Sugar House.

GCI Supt. Robert V. Turner said the two inmates had been in the weeds for no more than 15 minutes before they were missed. That's how long it was between headcounts.

The fields they escaped into were once pastures for part of the prison's beef cattle herd but have since become overgrown with pricklyweed growing up to six feet high.

Before the prisoners were recaptured at 4:55 p.m., dozens of GCI guards and deputy sheriffs were plowing their way through the weeds or were posted at likely spots around the fields and on roads as far away as 20 Mile Bend.

Because the fields are being converted into sugar cane land, United States Sugar Corporation has had work crews and heavy machinery nearby, getting the land ready for planting cane. Several of the machines and their operators were made available to Turner to flatten the weeds in and around the fields to make the search easier.

But there was still no sign of the escapees at 4 p.m., when a dozen volunteers of GCI officers just getting off duty arrived.

Turner said the fresh men started where the inmates escaped and beat along the line of a drainage ditch east and then turned south.

They were working in a line and were close enough, he said, so one man could see the next man's shoes.

They finally found the two escapees lying in the muddy water of the drainage ditch in an area Turner said had already been searched by men and dogs.

He said they used the water to elude the dogs.

"This is the way they should all end," Turner grinned when he, the officers and the escapees returned to the GCI compound.

Diaz, Turner said, offered some resistance when he was captured but not much.

Diaz and Martinez were turned over to the sheriff's office and taken to the county jail to await disposition of their escape attempt.

RECAPTURED PRISONERS Lazaro Martinez and Israel Diaz are handcuffed together by GCI guard William Barrett as the two inmates were prepared to be taken to the county jail following six hours of freedom.

Quick action saves city from sewage fine

SOUTH BAY - The city won't be fined $500 a day because of county health department complaints on the sewer treatment plant - but only because of quick action.

Mayor Don Tanner received a summons from the health department, acting as an agent of the State Department of Environmental Regulation, to appear at a hearing to show cause why the city shouldn't pay the fine.

The summons cited three areas where it said action would be required: the failure to have two Class B operators on duty 16 hours a day, too much infiltrating ground water going into the sewer lines and unauthorized discharge into surface waters.

City Manager Lomax Harrelle said the first two problems have already been solved and the surface water discharge may be solved with a permit, if the commission and the health department approves it.

The commission authorized Harrelle to go ahead with the permit application. The application will be prepared by the city's consulting engineers, Barker, Osha and Anderson.

Harrelle said he still doesn't know what the cost will be to the city and he'll come back to the commission before the final approval is sought from the health department.

Harrelle and City Attorney James Gann said the first complaint on the summons should never have been a problem anyway because the city has a Class C sewer treatment plant, not a Class B.

Harrelle said he told health department officials he had been told by Class A operators that the city's plant is Class C and shouldn't be required to have Class B operators.

That didn't satisfy the health department officials but Harrelle and Gann said they got in touch with a Department of Environmental Regulation official in Tallahassee.

Gann said they persuaded the state official the city has a Class C operation and he notified the county official making the complaint.

The health department had been applying pressure for some time on the city to hire two Class B operators for the plant.

Harrelle said about a month ago the department had strongly suggested the city contract with a company in the business of providing utility plant operators.

The city manager said the second problem was solved when he told health department officials sewer lines in the city had been inspected with television cameras recently.

He said all the leaks found during the inspection had been repaired and once that was documented, the health department was satisfied.

Harrelle told the commissioners the health department would probably require test wells all around the sewer treatment plant before the surface discharge permit is granted.

He said another requirement will probably be proof that any water discharged into the drainage ditch near the plant will be as clean or cleaner than the water in the ditch.

Harrelle said he foresees no problems on that score because the effluent from the sewer plant is already cleaner than the ditch water.

In other business, the commissioners:

3 perish near city in canal

Three Palm Beach County men died Sunday night, June 19, about 11 p.m. when their car rolled over in a canal after running through a stop sign and shooting across U.S. 27 at its intersection with County Road 832 about one mile east of Clewiston.

Joseph Shewman of Montura Estates reported the accident to the Clewiston Police Department after observing the car cross the intersection at an estimated 65 miles per hour.

Found dead at the scene were the driver, Audrey Len Gilmore, 21, of 725 S. W. Ave. C, Belle Glade; and his passengers, Joe Albert Milton, 20, of 225 S. W. Fifth St., Belle Glade; and Robert Louis Gibbons, 24, of 252 N. W. 10th St., South Bay.

Authority submits $830,000 budget

PAHOKEE - The Pahokee Housing Authority has submitted a $830,810 budget to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for approval for the 1983-1984 fiscal year.

Pahokee Housing Authority Executive Director Randall J. Mills told the board of commissioners Tuesday afternoon June 14 that he based the budget on $733,000 in rent revenue during the fiscal year, although he expects that figure to increase by $80,000.

He said the other revenues include $35,000 in excess utility charges, $35,000 in investments and interest payments and $27,810 from other income sources.

The expenditures he budgeted are $19,000 over the revenues anticipated in the budget.

That budget doesn't include the utility allowance the authority will receive from HUD, according to Mills. He said he thinks that probably be about $30,000.

SB homeowners get lot break

SOUTH BAY - Landowners who have been prevented by the city's new building code from building because of the size of their lots will get a break with a new ordinance.

The code, adopted not long ago along with the city's comprehensive plan, stipulates lots must have at least 75 front feet for a home to be built.

City Manager Lomax Harrelle said there are about 50 lots in the city with only 50 front feet and if building isn't permitted on those lots, there will be no new buildings between U.S. 27 and Rosewood Elementary School.

He said all the vacant lots in that section of the city are 50 feet across the front while all the vacant lots in the eastern part of the city are 75 feet wide.

Harrelle suggested the commission allow single family homes to be built on 50 foot wide lots as long as the builders meet setback requirements.

Those requirements are 25 feet in the front, 7.5 feet on each side and 20 feet in the rear.

Harrelle suggested the minimum lot size of 8,000 square feet be waived.

A public hearing on the amendment will be held during the July 18 meeting.

Quaker Oats burn victim to hospital, is critical

BELLE GLADE - A Quaker Oats employee who received second and third degree acid burns over 25 percent of his body is in critical condition at the Jackson Memorial Hospital Burn Center in Miami.

Deputy Sheriff Michael Stull said Ricky Berryhill of 1041 N.E. 20th St. was burned Monday afternoon while transferring powdered sulfuric acid from storage tanks to tanker trailers.

Stull said Berryhill was operating a portable pump when a hose separated and he was sprayed with the dry acid.

Stull said he understood the powdered sulfuric acid is considered easier to store. It liquefies when exposed to oxygen.

He said the acid was liquefied quicker and the burns were aggravated because of the high humidity in the air.

Berryhill was first treated in the emergency room at Glades General Hospital, then transferred to Miami aboard a sheriff's helicopter.

He was initially diagnosed as having received burns over 50 to 70 percent of his body but his doctor at Jackson Memorial adjusted the figure down to 25 percent.

Berryhill is a bagasse yard attendant.

Hurricane

Hurricane season is a dangerous time of the year in South Florida, where hurricanes seem to boil up overnight. Inside the Herald-Observer this week is a special section on this dreaded storm.

Bankers' Bank plans opening

Pahokee banker Julius T. Moon, president of the Bank of Pahokee, joined with independent bankers as Florida Comptroller Gerald A. Lewis formally approved the application for a state banking charter for the Independent Bankers' Bank of Florida.

Comptroller Lewis formally signed the charter application in his state capitol office in Tallahassee.

Moon is chairman of the organizing committee of Florida independent bankers seeking to establish the new bankers' bank.

Lewis' order, issued under the authority of legislation recently signed into law by Governor Bob Graham, enables the formation of a bankers' bank to perform wholesale banking services for the state's independent locally-owned banks.

Florida became only the sixth state in the nation to allow bankers' banks.

With federal banking approval, the new bank could be opened at its home office in Orlando by early August, said Noel H. Busch, president and chief executive officer.

"This is the wave of the future for independent banks in Florida and across the nation," said Chairman Moon following the charter's approval.

"By pooling the resources, expertise and capital, independent banks can enlarge the range and the quality of services to their customers," he added.

Unlike the typical commercial bank, the bankers' bank provides support and interbank service to its member independent banks which often find themselves in competition with much larger banking conglomerates.

A bankers' bank deals only with banks at the wholesale level and is not open to the public.

Assets of participating banks total over $2.6 billion at the present time, Moon said.

Most of the state's independent banks are shareholders in the new bank which is assured by its charter of a broad-based ownership.

ship. The advent of the Independent Bankers' Bank is especially important to locally owned and operated independent banks today when mergers and acquisitions by larger statewide and even regional banks that cross state lines is taking a toll on the traditional closer-to-home smaller independent banks," said Moon.

"When opened, it will be an equalizer for the local independent bank that chooses to remain independent and compete against its larger counterparts," he added.

With the approval of the charter application by Comptroller Lewis, who is head of the state's Department of Banking and Finance, only the approval by the Federal Reserve System remains before the bank can open.

"This important development in Florida banking could not have been possible without the efforts of bankers from throughout Florida who combined their efforts to bring the Independent Bankers' Bank of Florida to this point," said Moon.

Another Glades area banker, Howard E. Kurtz, president of the First Bank of Clewiston, is vice chairman of the organizing committee.

Rusch, chief executive officer of the Florida Independent Bankers' Bank, managed the organization of the nation's first bankers' bank in Minnesota.

Glades area independent banks participating in the formation of the new bank include Bank of Pahokee, Bank of Belle Glade, First Bank of Clewiston and Clewiston National Bank.

Some 60 of the state's independent banks are represented as subscribers.

Summer library program

BELLE GLADE—The Belle Glade Municipal Library's summer program for children is already underway, according to Librarian Phyllis Lilley, and will continue through Aug. 1.

Miss Lilley said the weekly programs may include puppet shows, stories, finger plays, arts and crafts.

The week following the summer program the Belle Glade Junior Woman's Club members are sponsoring a circus party for the children who have attended at least two of the eight programs. A book will be given to each child who has gone to at least six of the eight programs, according to Lilley.

Programs are as follows: Tuesdays from 11 a.m. to noon programs for 3, 4 and 5-year olds; Thursdays from 11 a.m. to noon for 6, 7 and 8-year olds and Fridays for 9, 10 and 11-year olds.

Saturdays at 2 p.m. there will be a movie suitable for all age groups. For additional information call the Belle Glade Municipal Library at 996-3453.

South Bay fine

Authorized Harrelle to continue talks with South Shore Water Association in Lake Harbor on the association's request to buy water from the city during the winter.

The city manager recommended the approval of the agreement, provided the association picks up all expenses involved and pays the standard water rates being paid by city residents, plus 25 percent.

The city and association systems have been connected for years to be sure of a supply of water to both in cases of emergency and the city supplied the association with water on a regular basis several years ago.

Since that agreement was terminated, Harrelle said, there has been some vandalism at the tie-in point of the systems, in particular the destruction of a six-inch water meter which he said the association should replace at its own expense.

Harrelle said the water sale, if it's large enough, should provide some relief to high water rates now being paid by city residents.

Commissioner Willie Marshall said he was in favor of any relief possible and moved to approve the continued negotiations by Harrelle and Gann.

Accepted a proposal by Jerome Taylor of West Palm Beach to act as an insurance consultant.

Taylor said group insurance for city employees will be raised between 25 and 50 percent next year and he said he could save the city money and could provide dental coverage at the same rate as the city will be charged next year.

He said he would act as a consultant at no fee to the city and provide three proposals for next fiscal year.

Heard from City Clerk Virginia Walker that she has no problems with the city participating in a common election date for the 37 municipalities in Palm Beach County.

Mrs. Walker said the proposed common election date is the second Tuesday in March, with all required runoffs two weeks later.

South Bay's election date now is the first Tuesday in March and any necessary runoffs scheduled for a week later.

Mrs. Walker pointed out the proposed election plans would be only one week later than the existing election date and two weeks would give her more time to set up the runoffs.

She said no other changes, except the city would pay about $25 for ballots, about what is being paid now, would be required and she would still be responsible for conducting the elections.

Commissioner Rennick Morris said he was concerned that with all cities holding their elections on the same date every year, there could be some confusion about which candidate was running in which city and what the issues would be.

Rodolfo P. Miranda, 63, of 800 S.E. First St. in Belle Glade died at his residence June 17, 1983. He was a native son of Camaguey, Cuba, and came to Belle Glade 23 years ago from Cuba. He is a member of the St. Philip Benizi Catholic Church in Belle Glade, a member of the National Cattlemen's Association, along with State and County Cattle Associations. At the time of his death, he was manager of the Big "B" Ranch.

Survivors include his wife Minnie Miranda of Belle Glade, one daughter Rebecca Rionda of Belle Glade; two brothers Rene Miranda of Belle Glade and Mario Miranda of Cuba; four sisters Hortensia M. Pita of Belle Glade, Alicia Miranda of Belle Glade, Dolores Garcia of Belle Glade and Anna Gloria Malvar of Miami; one grandson Enrique Rionda Jr. of Belle Glade. Rosary services were held at the Mixson Funeral Chapel, June 17th at 8:30 p.m. and funeral services were held at the Mixson Funeral Chapel, June 18, 1983, at 11 a.m. with Father Vincent Villar, S.D.B., officiating, of the St. Philip Benizi Catholic Church.

Entombment followed at the Foreverglasses Mausoleum Gardens in Belle Glade. Mixson Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

City hires summer youth

BELLE GLADE - Approximately 30 youths have jobs this summer with the City of Belle Glade through the CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) program.

According to Remar Harvin, director of Planning and Community Development for the city, the teenagers will be filling positions covering the "whole nine yards."

"They're hired for positions in the City Clerk's office, Planning and Development, Library, Recreation, Public Works, Sanitation, Buildings and Grounds and the Police Department," Harvin said.

Harvin and other city officials welcomed the new employees during an orientation meeting Monday, at city hall.

City Manager W.E. "Tommy" Strang, Jr. addressed the youths and said he had worked in various city governments for a number of years.

He told the group the City of Belle Glade was "run better than any city I've ever seen." He said if the new employees would "give us a full amount of time, we'll help you learn something here."

"You're going to be working with some of the most extraordinary people and it's going to be a good experience for you to work shoulder to shoulder with them."

Personnel Technician for the City of Belle Glade, Arthur Lee, outlined the rules of conduct for the new employees and City Clerk June Boglioli explained many of the city department functions to the group.

"And What Not"

The essential essence

This week we learned that our intrepid pursuers of poachers, the wildlife officers, arm themselves against bloodthirsty attackers, not with bullets but with bath oil. The toe that fits with fragrance (and some other secret ingredients) is the mosquito.

It took a Miami Herald reporter with a nose for news and eau du cologne to sniff out the truth, although I suppose anyone standing downwind of a brace of gun-toting game wardens drenched in Avon Skin-So-Soft would scent something out of the ordinary. Anyway, it seems that the game wardens, along with others who sojourn in the swamp, have discovered that the Avon product for milady's bath also repels mosquitos.

Avon headquarters apparently is aware that its beauty balm also works as a mosquito bomb but hasn't added the message to its flowery sales prose. How can you tell Madam with good grace that now there is a bath oil that not only leaves her skin soft as a rose petal and just as fragrant — it can also rid her of fleas, lice, and ticks? Incidentally, we don't have any word on whether the game wardens now sport peachy complexities, just that they're not bumpy with bug bites.

The discovery is bound to improve any Avon lady's sales, providing she doesn't object to poling a flatboat through the glades ringing a bell and yodeling, "Yoo Hoo! Avon Calling." Also, the company probably needs to add alligator coverage to whatever section of its liability insurance deals with attacks by bad dogs.

Midnight poachers may be getting a break out of it, too. Picture a canal beneath a cloud-covered moon, its banks carpeted with dozing 'gators. Comes trolling into the scene two men in a boat, one of them holding an object shaped mightily like a spotlight. The night air wafts its familiar scent of fish and mildew. But one figure in the boat sports danger — or something. He sniffs the air. He takes a deep breath and sniffs again. There are muttered words and the boat roars off into the night. On shore, six figures rise from crouching in the shrubbery — game wardens all. Their stakeout has failed and they know why. The muttered words carried to shore: "Avon Skin-So-Soft."

Although chemists reportedly haven't yet learned what is the secret ingredient in Avon's multi-purpose bath oil, it's only a matter of time until they do and every perfumer in the land that wants to increase its Florida sales will add it to their blend. How they'll solve the advertising pitch is something else, though. "Promise her anything, but give her Arpege. It also kills roaches," just won't do at all.

Thinking about the 4th...

Monday, July 4th, marks the 207th birthday of the independence of the our country.

If 207 years is only an eyeblink in terms of world history, what an incredible eyeblink it has been!

The United States has been called everything from a grand experiment in democracy to the best hope for the future of man.

Hated and dispised by some, the United States nevertheless remains a symbol of hope for millions around the world.

The U. S. continues to be the first choice for a new homeland by thousands upon thousands of refugees each year, looking for a new homeland, a new beginning.

In this regard, our "competition," the Soviet Union, is no competition at all. What oppressed minority have you heard about recently seeking shelter in the Kremlin?

Pope John Paul II, now making a courageous visit to Poland, noted that the only period of real freedom ever known by the Poles was between World Wars One and Two. It is tragic that for the rest of their lengthy history the Poles have been dominated by one neighbor or the other.

We often take our independence and freedom for granted and many of us cannot imagine the conditions and restrictions that most of mankind live under.

The Poles, Afghans, and Cambodians can tell us something about what it is like to live in an other than free society.

And the Northern Irish, the Salvadorans, and the Angolans can tell us what it is like to live in constant strife.

Seldom will any of us wake up in the morning and think to ourselves how wonderful it is to be alive in 1983 and living in a free and independent America.

But when we look at the big picture, we can see that it is wonderful. And most of the things that we see as bad in our country can be changed if enough people take the trouble to get involved.

Independence Day means freedom of choice, freedom of expression, and freedom of thought. Savor it.

Home sweet home

Home sweet home. How true it is. You don't realize how good home is till you are away from it for a while.

During the past two weeks, I changed hats. Off went my newspaper hat and on went my Army hat. It was time for two weeks of annual training at Fort Eustis, Va.

Looking back on the past two weeks and cutting through some of generalities such as flying in a Huey helicopter again for the first time since the Vietnam War days, eating Army chow, and sleeping on an Army bunk, there are a few broad observations I can make.

First off, I believe the taxpayers got their money's worth during the past two weeks. I was involved in an operation involving the Army Reserve, the Regular Army, the Army National Guard, and the United States Navy, which stretched through the weekend without a break.

This round-the-clock exercise included some of the hardest, most demanding training I have experienced during more than 17 years of service. There was no classroom training. It was all in the field, doing what we would be doing in time of war.

I was encouraged by what I saw. There are many good Reserve units sprinkled across this land. I have no doubt that if there is a national emergency they will be able to step in and carry out their mission. The Active Army is, in fact, counting on them.

I was also encouraged by the caliber of the young soldiers that I saw on active duty. Due to whatever reason — the economy or changing opinions about the military — a higher quality of soldier is now wearing the uniform than at any time since the Vietnam War.

I returned home Saturday evening, June 18, physically worn out by my "vacation," but somehow mentally refreshed.

If that sounds like a contradiction, perhaps it is because I enjoy what I do, find it meaningful, and thrive on the discipline.

But that is over for now and the newspaper hat is firmly back in place.

It is a delight being back with my wife, Kim, and little girl, Christine.

And the comforts of home, after a spartan past, two weeks, are nice too.

I can foresee the time, coming in the next few years if all goes as planned, when I will fold up my duffle bag permanently and store it in a closet. I think I'm really going to miss the whole Army experience when that day finally comes.

Point Chosen Bridge repair contract awarded

BELLE GLADE—The Florida Department of Transportation has awarded a contract to Cianbro Corporation of Pittsfield, Maine, for $175,564.20, to effect repairs to the Point Chosen Bridge, East of Belle Glade.

The 427 foot bridge provides access to Torry Island, in Lake Okechobee, which houses the Belle Glade Recreational Area and Marina and two fish camps.

The repair of the one-lane bridge will include replacement of the wood decking with steel grating and replacement of the fender system, which protects the bridge from boat traffic. Work will begin June 27, 1983, and is scheduled for completion by late October.

Pedestrian traffic across the bridge will be maintained. When closure of the bridge is necessary, an alternate means of transportation for pedestrians will be provided.

Vehicular traffic will not be maintained between the hours of 7:00 A.M. to 12:00 noon and from 1:00 P.M. to 6:00 P.M. Monday through Friday. Provisions have been made to accommodate emergency vehicles.

The swing span bridge will open for boat traffic upon request between 7:00 A.M. and 7:00 P.M. Monday through Sunday.

For further information contact Roy Pytel, in West Palm Beach, at (305) 793-0282.

Vets services offered

The Western Palm Beach County Mental Health Clinic, Inc., has been awarded a contract by the Veterans' Administration to provide resident counseling services to Vietnam Era veterans.

Under this contract, the clinic will provide services to eligible veterans living in the Clewiston, Belle Glade, and Pahokee vicinity.

The contract is part of an effort by the VA to respond to the specific readjustment needs of Vietnam Era veterans.

Interested persons should contact Mr. Joseph Amato, Executive Director, Western Palm Beach County Mental Health Clinic, Inc. at 996-5812/8814.

Getchrell Singleton honored

BELLE GLADE — A retirement dinner for Getchrell Singleton, principal of Rosenwald Elementary School in South Bay for 28 years, was given June 5 at the Lake Shore Civic Center.

More than 150 people attended the dinner sponsored by the Rosenwald-School staff and local community members.

Plaques were presented to Singleton from the City of South Bay. Rosenwald Elementary staff members and students, Mercedes Robinson, Miracle by Faith Revival Center and the fifth and sixth grade classes.

As a retirement gift, Singleton was given a check to purchase a boat.

Highlights of Singleton's educational career at the South Bay school were outlined by Juanita Malone, the mistress of ceremony.

Special guests reflected on memories from three decades of service Singleton had rendered at Rosenwald Elementary. He taught for five years at Rosenwald before being named principal.

Among the special guests attending were Richard Jemmot, Mae

Ross, Meriah Brown, Mrs. Edgar Johnson and Visadean Fryson, all from West Palm Beach.

Family members and guests from out of town attending were Mr. and Mrs. Preston Williams and Ethelyn Hayes of Boynton Beach, Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of Lakeland, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gainey of Stuart, Rev. and Mrs. Hesiziah Singleton, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lowe of Gainesville, Roddley Wilson of Tallahassee, Mr. and Mrs. Leanderous Fagg and Dorothy McCurdy of Jacksonville.

Rainbows to attend Grand Session in Tampa

BELLE GLADE—Area girls will be attending the Rainbow Grand Assembly session in Tampa starting June 25 and ending on June 29. Girls and adult advisors from over 100 assemblies will be present.

This year will be special to the local girls as Jennifer Stacy is the Grand Worthy Advisor. With only twenty-two Grand Officers from over 100 assemblies, a local Grand Worthy Advisor can be expected once in a lifetime.

There will be no expense to the girls for transportation. Girls will need money for meals and any souvenir shopping they may wish to do. The girls are chaperoned at all times and extra security will be furnished afterwards and evenings by Masons from lodges in the Tampa-St. Petersburg area. Friends and relatives of all the Rainbow girls are invited to attend Saturday evening or Sunday morning to the open portions of the services.

Letter to the editor

Editor:

The Action Committee of Belle Glade Crime Watch, Inc., extends a most sincere Thank You to each of the citizens of Belle Glade who have joined our volunteer organization.

We are working diligently to make this a very effective group and need additional volunteers for Block Captains and Zone Chairmen, so that our coverage will be complete.

An important meeting will be held on Thursday, June 24, 1983 at 8:00 p.m., in the old City Commission Chambers, 33

West Avenue A, Belle Glade, Florida. All persons interested in joining Crime Watch, Inc., are cordially invited to attend. Please come and help us make this a vital and beneficial organization to reduce crime and make Belle Glade safe for all residents. If you want to join, but cannot attend this meeting, please contact the local Police Department by telephone or letter.

Most Sincerely,
Nataleah Nachman,
Chairman
Action Committee of Belle Glade Crime Watch, Inc.

Phillips-Miller wed in garden ceremony

BELLE GLADE -- Tanya D. Phillips of Belle Glade and Robert Miller of Arcadia exchanged vows in a double ring ceremony May 7 at their new residence in Port Mayaca.

The bride is the daughter of Jerry and Kay Phillips of Belle Glade and John A. Sellers of Okeechobee. The groom is the son of Robert and Betty Miller of Arcadia.

The couple were united in marriage by the Rev. A.F. Denavan, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Pahokee.

The wedding March, "Love Song" and other background recorded music were programmed and coordinated by the bride's sister, Tammy Spell.

The bride was escorted by her father through the entrance of the old colonial home and down a flower lined walkway to the altar located under ancient cypress trees and palms on the front lawn.

The bride wore a double length hem-lined Elizabethan era bridal gown of silk sheen over maracaine knit. The bodice was enhanced by a sheer screen yoke with cameo high neckline. It was sprinkled at the shoulders and wrist line of the angel wing cut sleeves with appliques of silk tea roses, lilies of the valley and seed pearl embroidery.

Her veil was banded and bowed to a full brim hat of rolled lace shell of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of yellow rose buds, white daisies, daisies, baby's breath and silk curl streamers.

Terri Ann Phillips, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a gown of pleated blue-silk organza and carried a cameo bouquet of yellow rose buds, daisies and silk curl streamers.

Butch Miller, brother of the groom, served as best man. The brothers wore identical tuxedos of muted blue with yellow rose boutonnières.

The wedding was coordinated by the bride's sister, Tammy Spell. The floral design and arrangements were done by Bobbie Hull, sister of the groom.

The aisle walk in front of the home was banked and edged with straw baskets of yellow, white and lavender potted mums and red and pink begonias.

The altar was centered with an arch of greenery and trimmings of satin bows and pedestals of tropical with palms and potted mums.

A reception was held immediately following the garden wedding on the front lawn.

The bride's table was covered with a white linen-satin cloth. The four-tiered wedding cake was edged with two antique lead crystal candelabra and two bouquets of spring flowers, mums, pom poms and carnations.

The couple honeymooned at Epcot and other local Florida vacation spots in Central Florida.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Rines, Sonny, Angel and Jamie Rines, John and Wanda Carner, John A. Sellers, Shannon Sellers, Clinton Sellers, Mr. and Mrs. Butch Miller and children Anne and Mike and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hull.

sacola, and Dolores Davis of Okeechobee; nine grandchildren; and one great grandchild.

Memorial services were held 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 22, at Gospel Tabernacle in West Palm Beach.

Funeral services were held 2 p.m. Wednesday, June 22, at Canal Point United Methodist Church with Rev. John Sanders officiating.

Interment was at Evergreen Cemetery, Okeechobee.

Wetherington Funeral Home, Pahokee, was in charge of local arrangements.

Lillian Ester Smith Gordon

Lillian Ester Smith Gordon, 78, of Ashburn, Ga., died June 10 in Tift, Ga. She was a member of the First Baptist Church of Ashburn, Ga.

She is survived by one brother, James S. Smith of South Bay.

Services were conducted June 13 at the Perry Funeral Chapel in Ashburn with the Rev. Bob Zbinden officiating. Burial was held at the Rose Hill Cemetery in Ashburn.

Pallbearers were Raymond Smith, Marion Atkinson, Ricky Atkinson, Stacy Carter, Bullock Smith and Dennis Dupree.

Perry Funeral Chapel, Inc. in Ashburn, Ga. was in charge of arrangements.

Land acquisition funds to be applied for

BELLE GLADE - The Belle Glade city commissioners aren't sure, but they might be going after state funds so the city can buy land for a housing development.

The commission Monday night, June 13 gave its approval for City Planning Director Remar M. Harvin to apply for $276,000 under the Florida Department of Community Affairs' Revolving Land Acquisition and Site Development Trust Fund Loan Act.

According to Harvin, if the city is successful in obtaining the money and uses it to purchase the land, it could then have the land divided into lots and sell it to a private firm for development into low-cost housing.

The city could then repay the loan within a deadline of five years at three percent interest.

Harvin said he was asking for the city commission's permission to apply for the loan because preparing the application will result in several costs, such as an estimated $1,000 surveying.

Harvin said he is interested in purchasing about 3.4 acres located on SW Ninth and Tenth streets.

The land would be subdivided into approximately 16 single-family dwelling lots and 28 multi-family dwelling lots.

Those units, when constructed, would be low-cost.

Mayor Thomas L. Altman asked how the city would be obligated by applying for the loan and Harvin told him the city wasn't obligated to accept or refuse the loan for six months after it's approved.

He said the city should use that time to determine how feasible the project was and to line up a contractor and developer for the project before accepting the loan.

If it accepted the loan then couldn't find a developer, the city could end up with a loan it was obligated to repay and a piece of land it couldn't do anything with, he said.

He said he also wanted the commission's initial consent before he put anymore staff time into preparing the application.

"It's too time consuming to put any more staff time to it if it doesn't look like a very viable project, and I think it is," he said.

He added that he should be able to determine the project's feasibility before the city has to accept or refuse the loan.

Harvin has already received a letter from the Florida Department of Veteran and Community Affairs informing him that the department has reserved $276,000 for the Belle Glade request for the next six months.

The complete application must be submitted to the department before November 18, according to the letter signed by John M. DeGrove, department secretary.

Mosquito spraying

BELLE GLADE-At 7:30 p.m. Friday, Environmental Aviation Services, Inc., D-C 3 plane took off and began to spray the populated areas from the Martin County line to the Hendry County line for mosquitoes.

"The airplane is the most effective and efficient way of killing adult mosquitoes," said Howard Barker, owner of E.A.S.I.

The spray used is a compound called Dribon 14 and is released from the airplane

100 to 200 feet in the air. The Dribon 14 is pumped from 60 gallon containers into the 150 gallon container aboard D-C 3 twin engine plane. In the event that more spray is needed, it is carried aboard the plane and is pumped into the tank while in flight.

According to Barker, a study run in Polk County which concluded that 91.5% effectiveness was obtained from air spraying as opposed to 10% effectiveness via the ground control method.

INSIDE THE D-C3-rest the container that holds 150 gallons of Dribon 14 that is used in aerial spraying for mosquitoes in Western Palm Beach County.

Land acquisition funds to be applied for

BELLE GLADE—The Belle Glade city commissioners aren't sure, but they might be going after state funds so the city can buy land for a housing development.

The commission Monday night, June 13 gave its approval for City Planning Director Roman M. Harvin to apply for $276,000 under the Florida Department of Community Affairs' Revolving Land Acquisition and Site Development Trust Fund Loan Act.

According to Harvin, if the city is successful in obtaining the money and uses it to purchase the land, it could then have the land divided into lots and sell it to a private firm for development into low-cost housing.

The city could then repay the loan within a deadline of five years at three percent interest. Harvin said he was asking for the city commission's permission to apply for the loan because preparing the application will result in several costs, such as an estimated $1,000 surveying.

Harvin said he is interested in purchasing about 3.4 acres located on SW Ninth and Tenth streets.

The land would be subdivided into approximately 16 single-family dwelling lots and 28 multi-family dwelling lots.

Those units, when constructed, would be low-cost. Mayor Thomas L. Altman asked how the city would be obligated by applying for the loan and Harvin told him the city wasn't obligated to accept or refuse the loan for six months after it's approved.

He said the city should use that time to determine how feasible the project was and to line up a contractor and developer for the project before accepting the loan.

If it accepted the loan then couldn't find a developer, the city could end up with a loan it was obligated to repay and a piece of land it couldn't do anything with, he said.

He said he also wanted the commission's initial consent before he put anymore staff time into preparing the application.

"It's too time consuming to put any more staff time to it if it doesn't look like a very viable project, and I think it is," he said.

He added that he should be able to determine the project's feasibility before the city has to accept or refuse the loan.

Harvin has already received a letter from the Florida Department of Veteran and Community Affairs informing him that the department has reserved $276,000 for the Belle Glade request for the next six months.

The complete application must be submitted to the department before November 18, according to the letter signed by John M. DeGrove, department secretary.

Mosquito spraying

BELLE GLADE—At 7:30 p.m. Friday, Environmental Aviation Services, Inc., D-C 3 plane took off and began to spray the populated areas from the Martin County line to the Hendry County line for mosquitoes.

"The airplane is the most effective and efficient way of killing adult mosquitoes," said Howard Barker, owner of E.A.S.I.

The spray used is a compound called Dribon 14 and is released from the airplane

100 to 200 feet in the air. The Dribon 14 is pumped from 50 gallon containers into the 160 gallon container aboard D-C 3 twin engine plane. In the event that more spray is needed, it is carried aboard the plane and is pumped into the tank while in flight.

According to Barker, a study run in Polk County which concluded that 91.6% effectiveness was obtained from air spraying as opposed to 10% effectiveness via the ground control method.

INSIDE THE DC-3—rest the container that holds 150 gallons of Dribon 14 that is used in aerial spraying for mosquitoes in Western Palm Beach County.

Land acquisition funds to be applied for

BELLE GLADE - The Belle Glade city commissioners aren't sure, but they might be going after state funds so the city can buy land for a housing development.

The commission Monday night, June 13 gave its approval for City Planning Director Remar M. Harvin to apply for $276,000 under the Florida Department of Community Affairs' Revolving Land Acquisition and Site Development Trust Fund Loan Act.

According to Harvin, if the city is successful in obtaining the money and uses it to purchase the land, it could then have the land divided into lots and sell it to a private firm for development into low-cost housing.

The city could then repay the loan within a deadline of five years at three percent interest.

Harvin said he was asking for the city commission's permission to apply for the loan because preparing the application will result in several costs, such as an estimated $1,000 surveying.

Harvin said he is interested in purchasing about 3.4 acres located on SW Ninth and Tenth streets.

The land would be subdivided into approximately 16 single-family dwelling lots and 28 multi-family dwelling lots.

Those units, when constructed, would be low-cost. Mayor Thomas L. Altman asked how the city would be obligated by applying for the loan and Harvin told him the city wasn't obligated to accept or refuse the loan for six months after it's approved.

He said the city should use that time to determine how feasible the project was and to line up a contractor and developer for the project before accepting the loan.

If it accepted the loan then couldn't find a developer, the city could end up with a loan it was obligated to repay and a piece of land it couldn't do anything with, he said.

He said he also wanted the commission's initial consent before he put any more staff time into preparing the application.

"It's too time consuming to put any more staff time to it if it doesn't look like a very viable project, and I think it is," he said.

He added that he should be able to determine the project's feasibility before the city has to accept or refuse the loan.

Harvin has already received a letter from the Florida Department of Veteran and Community Affairs informing him that the department has reserved $276,000 for the Belle Glade request for the next six months.

The complete application must be submitted to the department before November 18, according to the letter signed by John M. DeGrove, department secretary.

Lovely-Wilson plans announced

SOUTH BAY - Anieca C. Lovely of South Bay and John E. Wilson, also of South Bay, will exchange wedding vows this Saturday at 8 p.m.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Waymon and Beulah Collins of South Bay. She is employed at Rosenwald Elementary School as a secretary. Her groom-elect is the son of Willie and Edith Henderson of South Bay. He is an insurance agent.

The double ring candlelight ceremony will be performed at the Church of God, 156 NW 9th Ave., South Bay with the Rev. Robert Gresham officiating.

All friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend. A reception will follow at the Lake Shore Civic Center, 1224 SW Ave. E., Belle Glade.

Card of thanks

We would like to express our thanks to the people of this community for their love and concern upon the recent death of our son Frankie.

Your prayers, visits, food and flowers are all deeply appreciated. Through this we have learned how much our son was loved.

Thank You

Frank, Angela and Ivette Garcia

KATRINA WARREN

Planned Parenthood director

BELLE GLADE - Planned Parenthood of the Glades area announced Monday the appointment of Katrina Warren as the new Director of the Belle Glade office.

Warren attended Palm Beach Junior College in Lake Worth, and then furthered her education at University of Western Florida in Pensacola. She was a honor graduate and was inducted into Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Only one student out of 34 receive this honor.

Warren will be replacing Cathy Cottle who is transferring to the West Palm Beach office to take over counseling and volunteer services for Greater West Palm Beach. Cottle has been in the Belle Glade office for the past three years.

Mosquito spraying

BELLE GLADE - At 7:30 p.m. Friday, Environmental Aviation Services, Inc., D-C 3 plane took off and began to spray the populated areas from the Martin County line to the Hendry County line for mosquitoes.

The airplane is the most effective and efficient way of killing adult mosquitoes," said Howard Barker, owner of E.A.S.I.

The spray used is a compound called Dribon 14 and is released from the airplane

100 to 200 feet in the air. The Dribon 14 is pumped from 50 gallon containers into the 150 gallon container aboard D-C 3 twin engine plane. In the event that more spray is needed, it is carried aboard the plane and is pumped into the tank while in flight.

According to Barker, a study run in Polk County which concluded that 91.5% effectiveness was obtained from air spraying as opposed to 10% effectiveness via the ground control method.

INSIDE THE D-C 3--rest the container that holds 150 gallons of Dribon 14 that is used in aerial spraying for mosquitoes in Western Palm Beach County.

Extension agents play role during disaster

GAINESVILLE—Florida's Extension agents are best known for the advice they offer on agricultural and home economics problems. But in times of disaster, the state's 300 county agents play an important role in local emergency teams.

"Our most important function is providing information to people before and immediately after a disaster," says Dr. John T. Woeste, Dean for Extension at the University of Florida's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences (IFAS).

"Before the disaster we alert people to the precautions they can take to protect themselves, their homes, their equipment, and animals. Afterwards, there are a number of problems associated with saving crops, animals and machinery. The role of an Extension agent in a small rural county during emergencies can be quite different than it is in the populous, low-lying areas of southern Florida.

In Gilchrist County, on the banks of the Suwannee River, County Extension Director Marvin Weaver serves with the local Soil Conservation Service and Farmer's Home Administration agents on an emergency board assigned to get the county's agricultural enterprises back in operation after a disaster.

"Whether it's a tornado or a flood or a hurricane," Weaver says, "as soon as the storm is over the three of us ride out and survey the extent of the damage. In addition to doing what we can to help the farmers, we have to file an immediate report estimating the extent of the damages so we can qualify for disaster assistance."

If there is an accident at the Crystal River Nuclear Power plant, 50 miles away, Weaver's emergency role will take him to local dairies, checking to see if milk has been contaminated by radiation.

In Monroe County, where the string of Florida Keys is extremely vulnerable to hurricanes, Extension Director Jeff Fisher is the county's official emergency information director.

"If a hurricane hits, the Civil Defense director won't have time to talk to the press, so our office will be responsible for keeping media and the public informed," Fisher explains. "Also, I've got a network of volunteers who will call up and down the Keys, gathering and disseminating reports."

"In the aftermath of the storm," Fisher continues, "We'll be responsible for getting disaster relief. The top priorities for the Keys are keeping the Overseas Highway open, restoring the fresh water pipeline, and assuring food supplies. Within the first 24 or 48 hours after the storm I'll be making the damage estimates and filling out the paper work needed to get federal disaster assistance, emergency shelter, cleanup, equipment, loans, that sort of thing."

In addition to their roles during and after a storm, Extension agents are expected to help educate the public about disaster preparedness. Fisher's Key West office, for example, distributes between five and seven thousand hurricane preparedness pamphlets every storm season, and all county agents have been trained to answer questions on emergency food distribution, sanitation, clean up techniques, safety and repairs.

HURRICANE 1983

Hurricane preparations:

Before the Storm

1. COLLECT and place indoors all loose objects (garbage cans, furniture, tools, etc.) Lower and secure TV antennas. Bring mops and buckets indoors and keep handy.
2. BRACE WINDOWS and DOORS. Close shutters or awnings. Tape or board-up exposed windows. Stuff paper and rags around doors and windows to prevent water damage.
3. FOOD — Stock up with canned and dry packaged foods that will keep. Include a can-opener in your supplies.
4. WATER — Fill all available containers with water. This includes bathtub. Sterilize tub with boiling water and Clorox. Boil other containers for 10 minutes.
5. LIGHT AND HEAT — Flashlights and a good supply of batteries and bulbs are preferred for lighting. Avoid open-flame lighting whenever possible. FIRE IS A HAZARD DURING A HURRICANE — CHECK FIRE EXTINGUISHER. Be sure adequate fuel is on hand for cooking.
6. BOATS — Secure. Let air out of trailer tires and fill boat with water. Do not tie boat or trailer to the house.
7. CARS — Secure sufficient gasoline to go 250 to 300 miles without refueling in event evacuation is ordered. Check water and battery.
9. MOBILE HOMES — Proper tie-down procedures should be obtained in advance. Residents are advised not to remain in such homes during a tropical storm or hurricane.
9. MEDICINE — Check first aid supplies for Bandages, Adhesive Tape, Antiseptics, Spirits of Ammonia, etc. SPECIAL MEDICINES SHOULD BE ACQUIRED IN ADVANCE. These include insulin, nitroglycerin, etc. DON'T FORGET SPECIAL FORMULAS FOR BABIES.
10. INNOCULATIONS — Keep family's tetanus, typhoid and typhus inoculations up to date.

Hurricanes have the power to slam into Florida's shoreline with 200-mile-per-hour winds and tides that can surge up to 18 feet or more above mean sea level. They leave behind death, injuries and property destruction amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars.

After the Storm

1. BE CAUTIOUS — Conditions may be extremely hazardous. Keep strict supervision over children.
2. FALLEN WIRES — Do not touch fallen or hanging wires. Avoid puddles with fallen wires in them.
3. DRINKING WATER — Flooding may cause pollution of water supply. Use only drinking water that you know is clean until all-clear is given.
4. REFUSE and GARBAGE — Use lime to sterilize garbage and refuse.

During the Storm

1. STAY INSIDE — Keep a door or window open on the side AWAY from the wind. Be quick to close it if the wind changes direction, and open one on the other side.
2. BE CAUTIOUS OF FIRES — Use flashlight instead of open flame candle or lamp whenever possible. Keep fire extinguisher handy.
3. DO NOT SPREAD RUMORS — Listen to your local radio for OFFICIAL advisories from the weather bureau.
4. THE EYE — Do NOT venture outside during the calm period during the storm.

Clewiston - 1926 hurricane

Returning to a flooded home

1. Before entering a flooded building, make sure there is no structural damage and the building is not in danger of collapse.

2. Let the house air for several minutes to remove foul odors or escaped gas.

3. Don't smoke or use any open flame until you are sure it is safe to do so.

4. Be alert for holes in the floor, loose boards, hanging or loose plaster, snakes or other hazards.

5. Do not activate any electrical switch or appliance until the whole electrical system has been checked. You should turn off the main electrical switch, being extremely careful to stand on a dry surface. Avoid touching the metal handle of the switch box. Use a piece of heavy rubber, plastic or a piece of dry wood to throw the switch off.

6. If you have gas service, be alert for fumes. Call your local utility if you can detect any fumes.

7. Don't drink water in the home unless it has been declared safe. You can boil water for 10 minutes. The flat taste can be improved by adding a pinch of salt. In emergencies, limited amounts of water may be obtained by draining a hot water tank or by melting ice cubes.

8. Destroy fresh meats, poultry, fruits and vegetables, prepared and processed foods, medicines and cosmetics in cardboard containers or bags and other packages that are not hermetically sealed, if they have been in contact with floodwaters.

9. Destroy the contents of crown-capped bottles and screw-top glass containers, including food in glass jars, if the containers have been covered by floodwaters.

10. Food utensils and equipment subjected to floodwaters should be thoroughly washed and sterilized before using.

11. Open all doors and windows to dry out the house. Both air and heat are essential.

12. If the basement has been flooded, begin pumping out the water. Do so in stages, about one-third per day. This will ease water pressure and minimize further structural damage.

13. Pump or bail out water and shovel out the mud while it is moist to give walls and floors an opportunity to dry.

14. Scrub all woodwork and floors with a stiff brush, plenty of water and a detergent to remove mud and silt from corners, cracks and crevices. Always start washing a wall at the bottom and work up. Starting at the top is likely to result in water streaking.

15. Take furniture outdoors and remove drawers and other working parts as soon as possible. Clean off mud and silt with cold water. Do not leave wooden furniture in direct sunlight; it may warp.

16. Upholstered furniture—especially any which has been submerged or badly damaged—should be cleaned, dried and examined by an experienced upholsterer.

17. Clean metal as soon as possible. After cleaned and dried, wipe with a cloth saturated with kerosene.

18. Valuable papers, works of arts, paintings etc., may be placed in cold storage to prevent mildew until they can be restored by an expert.

19. Wall-to-wall carpets should be raised to allow air to circulate. Draperies, upholstery and clothing should be laundered or sent to professional cleaners immediately.

Know the Warning Signals

TERMS FREQUENTLY USED

ADVISORY — A formal message from a Weather Bureau Hurricane Warning Center giving warning information, along with details on tropical cyclone location, intensity and movement, as well as precautions that should be taken.

BULLETIN — A public release for press, radio and TV from a Hurricane Warning Center, issued at times other than when advisories are required. The Bulletin gives the latest information on a disturbed area of tropical weather, or a potential, existing or dissipating tropical cyclone.

HURRICANE — A large revolving storm originating over tropical ocean waters with winds of 74 miles per hour or more, blowing counterclockwise around the center.

EYE OF THE STORM — The relatively calm area near the center of the storm. In this area winds are light and the sky is only partly covered by clouds.

GALE WARNING — When winds of 38-55 miles per hour are expected, a gale warning is added to the advisory message.

STORM WARNING — When winds of 55-74 miles per hour are expected, a storm warning is added to the advisory message.

HURRICANE WATCH — If the hurricane continues its advance and threatens coastal and inland regions, a hurricane watch is added to the advisory, covering a specified area and duration. A hurricane watch means that hurricane conditions are a real possibility; it does not mean they are imminent. When a hurricane watch is issued, everyone in the area covered by the watch should listen for further advisories and be prepared to act quickly if hurricane warnings are issued.

HURRICANE WARNING — When hurricane conditions are expected within 24 hours, a hurricane warning is added to the advisory. Hurricane warnings identify coastal areas where winds of at least 74 miles per hour are expected to occur. A warning may also describe coastal areas where dangerously high water or exceptionally high waves are forecast, even though winds may be less than hurricane force.

What to do in South Bay

SOUTH BAY - In addition to the hurricane refugee center operated by the Red Cross at Rosenwald Elementary in South Bay, an overflow facility will be operated at the fire station in South Bay in case of a hurricane, according to Chief Charles R. Forrest.

Forrest would head the civil defense activities in South Bay in the event of a major disaster.

According to the Emergency Procedures guidelines provided by the South Bay Public Safety Department earlier this month, all personnel of the South Bay Public Safety Department will be available on 24 hour call when a Hurricane Watch is issued. When a Watch is upgraded to a Warning, all personnel are to report to the department for assignments.

The guidelines estimate that the maximum time available to effect an evacuation of the city is eight hours. It recommends those who are unable to evacuate seek shelter above the first floor level in the event of heavy flooding.

Muck dike built in early 1920s

By Charles Mack Todd

From 1912 to 1926 a severe hurricane had not come in full force to the Everglades of South Florida. For this reason most of the people in South Florida were not acquainted with hurricanes and what they could do.

In 1926 a severe hurricane came to the Miami area - thence north westward, the center passing just to the west side of the lake. It did considerable damage at Moore Haven, drowning several people. But on the east and south sides of the lake but little damage was done, for this reason, the people living on the east and south side of the lake knew but little about the fury and damage a hurricane could do.

In 1928, the Federal Weather Bureau did not know about hurricanes as it does now. Then they could not locate them and tell about their size and fury, how fast they were traveling, or in exactly which direction. So the people on the east and south sides of the lake in 1928 were not acquainted with the laws of storms, and were ignorant about the danger of living by this big lake of about 1,000 square miles of water during a raging tropical hurricane.

Most of the people did not have even a radio to tell them of the approaching storm and the damage it might do to life and property, so most of them settled down to spend the night in unprotected area in shacks.

Before night fall Sunday, September 1928, the storm was near enough to be getting furious because the storm center was approaching Lake Worth. It came ashore there about 8 p.m. and headed directly towards Pahokee. The lull - the storm center arrived about 11 p.m. The lull was about 45 minutes long. So about midnight the lull passed and the other side of the hurricane came in great fury, even worse than the first side of it.

About New Year's day 1923, a floating dredge came into the lake and began laying up a small muck dike, beginning at the meander line at Bacom Point (where H.J. Anderson now lives) and following the meander line around the south end of the lake, thinking that would help the settlers, especially the farmers, better control the water on the submerged land.

As the storm approached the lake, the wind blowing hard from the northwest and then the west, piled the lake water up against this small muck dike until the water plunged over several feet deep catching people and animals in unprotected areas with great fury with wholesale destruction in several places.

On the day before the storm arrived that night, while up in Pahokee, I saw Grover Inlow boarding up windows in his bakery (where Dave's Palm Beach Store now stands). He was acquainted with how bad a hurricane could be, and was taking precautions. Seeing this I asked him if I could come up and stay with him during the storm. (Then my family and I lived on Bacom Point). He said, "Come on up Mack with your family". So late in the day, (it was already raining and blowing pretty hard then) I loaded my wife and three small sons, Roland, Owen and Basil, and my wife's father W.F. Owen in my Ford Model-T and drove up to Pahokee. I put Mr. Owen out at his rooming house on the corner of (now) 2nd St. Lake Park Drive. Then I took my family to the bakery where we were shut in for the storm.

As the storm center approached, the wind became more furious with every puff, at times shaking the building like it would be torn to pieces. Once a flying object hit the building with such a blast, some who were inside wanted to get out. But old Father York, a veteran of the Battle of Gettysburg, yelled loudly, "Stay inside. It was worse than this at Gettysburg."

When the storm center arrived, it was very still and hard to breathe, the barometer was so low. But as we had been spared we (some of us) ventured outside but it was so dark we could not see the damage done thus far. It was on the new moon and dark nights - in fact the darkest night that I have ever seen - and it was the last night that several hundred ever saw in this world. During the lull, we learned that the hotel where we had left my wife's father was already destroyed. Then during the rest of the night she was afraid her father was gone, so it added to our misery.

During the lull when we were outside, I knew something about the laws of storms, so I warned those outside that soon the other side of the storm would hit with great fury. As I talked the storm could be heard coming with the noise and rumble of a fast loaded freight train. We rushed back inside and instantly the storm hit again with great fury. And as the wind blew hard from the east, the water that had been blown out of the lake while the wind blew from the west rushed back towards the lake. When it got almost knee deep in the building where we were, my wife asked me to taste the water to see if it were salty. She thought the water now might be coming from the ocean. When I tasted it and assured her it was fresh, she was relieved.

By about sunrise the storm had blown by so we could get out and try to ascertain some of the damage. And in a short while I found my wife's father in the new school house building where many others had gone for safety during the storm. He was okay and so were two of her sisters. My father and mother and some of the family were safe at Canal Point where the Everglades News was published many years.

When we all came out dazed after the storm, it is impossible to tell how we felt and what we saw. Dead people, horses, cows, hogs, snakes, fish, alligators and fowls of the air.

Shortly the Red Cross and American Legion came to us with aid of every possible kind. Because of dead things putrifying, in a few hours an awful stench filled the air. The lake water was inspected and found unsafe to use, because of pollution. So water was brought by tank on a truck from an artesian flowing well down on Conner's Highway. In ten days the lake water was inspected again and declared pure for use.

Red Cross operates 5 shelters in Glades

The American Red Cross will be operating five Hurricane Refugee Shelters in the Glades in the event of a major hurricane, but Jerry Krinn, the Red Cross Disaster Chairman, said only people with no other place to go should go to one of the centers for shelter.

"As a last resort, go to a shelter," said Krinn. "Shelter living is bad at best."

The five locations will be staffed by a shelter manager and a shelter nurse, and will provide water and toilet facilities. Krinn said the Red Cross is making plans for a three day supply for each occupant of the shelters, but that is contingent upon the deliveries being made in case of an emergency.

No cots will be supplied by the Red Cross at the shelters, and anyone opting for Red Cross shelter must bring something soft to sleep on.

Krinn said the Red Cross suggests they bring an air mattress because they take little space, but added that blankets and pillows can serve the purpose also.

In the event of a hurricane, residents must decide on their own whether to stay or leave their homes.

Areas with a high flood probability are advised to leave and check into a motel or stay with a friend in a safer area.

Krinn recommended Glades residents stay in the area because of the danger in travelling the three major highways going out of the area: SR

80, US 27 and US 441.

"All three are killer highways," said Krinn.

Anyone who elects to stay at home should prepare, said Krinn. Houses should be boarded up with shutters or plywood. If that is not possible, windows should be taped from the inside. This doesn't prevent breakage, according to Krinn, but prevents the glass from shattering and flying.

Water should be collected in tubs since the area's water supply could be contaminated.

Krinn said a minimum supply would be one gallon per person per day.

Those leaving should also plan in advance.

A hurricane watch is usually issued 36 to 48 hours in advance of land fall of the storm, allowing those who plan to leave to make preparations.

According to Krinn, anyone leaving should make a reservation for the place they intend to stay.

They should leave early, carrying with them five days of medicine, two to three days of food and water, a flashlight, a battery operated radio, something soft to sleep on and a small first aid kit.

None of the food should need cooking or refrigeration, according to Krinn.

People should also be psychologically prepared to be closed up 24 to 48 hours, said Krinn, adding that the low barometric pressure during a storm can adversely affect people with bad nerves.

Krinn emphasized that preparation is vitally important.

The Glades, in 1928 the site of the third largest disaster ever in the United States, has the potential, due to population increases, for the largest disaster in the country's history.

"We have the potential for the greatest ever in Florida, and sooner or later, we're going to get it," said Krinn.

Five Red Cross centers will provide refugees with shelter from the weather in the event of a hurricane:

- Canal Point Elementary School, 300 Everglades Street in Canal Point.
- Pahokee High School, 360 Main Street in Pahokee.
- Glades Central High School, 425 W. Canal Street North in Belle Glade.
- Palm Beach Junior College, 1977 College Drive in Belle Glade.
- Rosenwald Elementary School, 1321 Palm Beach Road West in South Bay.

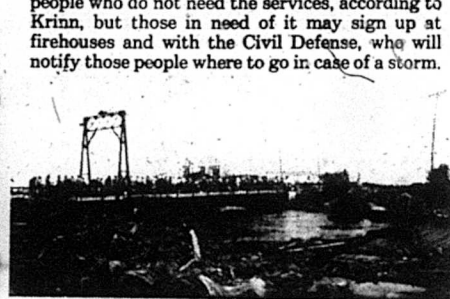

In addition, a Special Care Unit will be operating in the Glades to care for those who must have medical care, according to Krinn.

Krinn said the unit will be set up strictly for those on life support systems or who a doctor believes must have special or constant medical attention.

The location for that site will not be publicly revealed to prevent it from being crowded with people who do not need the services, according to Krinn, but those in need of it may sign up at firehouses and with the Civil Defense, who will notify those people where to go in case of a storm.

MOORE HAVEN residents were dazed and frightened after the 1926 hurricane, took the lives of an estimated 200 people in the area. This picture, apparently taken either Sunday, September 19, 1926 or the following Monday before the town was ordered evacuated, shows survivors in downtown Moore Haven, wading through the still-deep water. The two story buildings in this picture saved many lives.

Hurricane survival depends on your actions

Will a hurricane bring horrifying destruction into your life?

The answer lies with you. Can you follow a survival plan as well as a hurricane can bring death and destruction? If so, the people of the Hendry County Civil Defense Department are almost certain you'll make it through the deadly storm unharmed.

No doubt, there are those who are content to merely speculate as to when the next hurricane will slam into Florida. Every June through November, they wonder if maybe a hurricane's danger is exaggerated. They may also find themselves grieving in the midst of the big blow.

Tommie Smith has been Hendry County's Civil Defense director for sometime now. He says he has observed in the county a spirit of cooperation that will save lives when a hurricane's fury is at its worst. "We're in as good a shape as any county in the state because of the cooperation of people in the community," says Smith.

On the other hand, Smith becomes concerned when he ponders the vulnerability of the area's large number of mobile homes and steel buildings. When hurricane Donna brought her brand of destruction into Florida during the early 60s, Smith estimates the area had only 10 percent of the mobile homes it now has.

Without the cooperation of mobile home dwellers, his department's means of aiding them will be exhausted and the results tragic. There should be no question about evacuating mobile homes and low lying areas when evacuation warnings are given, emphasize Smith. Even if you reside in a conventional dwelling, Smith urges heeding evacuation warnings. Otherwise you might be without the things you need for survival, he explains. "It's best to get into a place where all your services are available."

Locally, the warning to evacuate will be broadcast over LaBelle FM station WVHG and Clewiston's WAFC-FM. The radio station has been assigned as an emergency information center for Hendry and Glades Counties.

Realizing that his department must deal with the inevitable, Smith and his staff review the county's disaster preparedness plan every year and modify it where necessary. The plan includes responsibilities delegates to various county agencies and departments in the event of a disaster. This includes the sheriff's department, the county engineering department, the county health department, the welfare services department, fire and rescue services, communications and warning officers.

The Hendry County sheriff is the police services officer. His department will provide protection for personal property and perform traffic control, rescue operations and radiological monitoring. In short, the sheriff's department will take all necessary action to maintain order and minimize casualties and damage.

Debris will be cleared from the streets and highways by the county engineer's department. Radio monitoring on public highways will also be the responsibility of the engineer's department as well as heavy rescue operations and repairing emergency utilities.

Health, medical and sanitary services will be the responsibility of the county health officer of, the county's health department.

Fire control and rescue services will be provided by the Fire and Rescue Services.

Those needing emergency welfare services will be provided lodging, feeding, clothing and social services by the Florida Emergency Welfare Department.

Duties of the communications officer include organizing all communications within the county into emergency networks.

The warning officer will give the storm warnings. Along with organizing a warning network within the county, the warning officer must implement necessary training and maintain communications with all departments and agencies within the county having a warning responsibility.

These agencies will work together to keep confusion at a minimum, notes Smith. During the storm, their work will be continuous. When the storm passes, regional and state networks will be available to assist, he explains. If needed, portable hospitals will be supplied and staffed by the state and air rescue services provided by the Coast Guard.

The Hendry County Civil Defense Department and other agencies have worked together on a plan to get you through the worst of it. When a hurricane hits, they are counting on you to do your part.

EOC improves chances of survival

BELLE GLADE -- That a major hurricane brings problems with it goes without saying.

Knowing where to go and what to do if a major storm should hit the Glades can help the city and its residents survive those problems.

Who makes the decisions and plans the strategy for a city and its residents to survive a major natural disaster?

In Belle Glade, the Emergency Operation Center (EOC) is responsible for that planning. According to Mike Miller, inspector with the Belle Glade Police Department, the center coordinates all emergency procedures from a room in the old city hall on Avenue A.

The room is equipped with facilities to monitor information coming in from television, radio, and the government. Hook-ups are available for local radio station WSWN to provide live, up-to-the-minute information directly from the room.

Ham radio facilities are available to keep the members of the EOC in touch with the outside world and rain and wind gauges help them monitor the local situation.

The center has been in operation three times since its inception in 1977, according to Miller, the most recent being early last month when Alberto threatened.

When the EOC is notified of an impending storm, the members review the procedures set down in a book and update all phone numbers and information.

The situation is monitored and a decision is made whether or not to begin EOC operations.

The early stages of the operation involve monitoring the storm and its movement.

"We get the Emergency Operations Center going before anything happens so we can be set-up in case anything does," said Miller. "We don't want to go to sleep and wake up the next morning and be surprised when they tell us it's going to hit. The key is to get it operational before you have the problem."

If the situation warrants it, the civil defense director can have all the hurricane evacuation centers in the city opened.

In the event of an emergency, every city employee would be put on alert and all vacations and leaves would be cancelled.

Every employee would have an assignment. These assignments are listed in the procedures manual under the persons name and position.

According to Miller, several local agencies and organizations have agreed to supply vehicles and supports in the event of an emergency.

"That's never been a problem for us," he said. "In times of need, the citizens of Belle Glade have been very cooperative and volunteered."

The city manager of Belle Glade is the city's civil defense director and, as such, is primarily responsible for the decisions that must be made in the event of an emergency.

"He's the boss," Miller said. "He's Civil Defense Director."

If a major storm should hit the area, the EOC keeps a wary eye on low-lying areas, trailer parks and the city marina. Those areas would probably have to be evacuated before any others, said Miller.

The residents in those areas would be informed through the media and a vehicle with a loud-speaker.

Miller emphasized that civil defense cannot force anyone to evacuate, only advise them that it would be preferable.

There are 15 hurricane shelters in Belle Glade and transportation can be provided, but Milleg saib he wouldn't suggest anyone wait for the city to pick them up because of the fluctuating supply of vehicles at the city's disposal.

The EOC isn't just a foul weather friend, though.

When the storm passes, it doesn't close up shop. It is just as involved in clean-up and recovery services as it is in pulling the city through the actual storm itself.

There's a map of major roads in the procedures manual. Those major roads have priority in the clean-up after the disaster because of the access they provide to hospitals and vital services and supplies.

According to the local Red Cross director, Doug Wooten, the Red Cross, working with the EOC, would attempt to provide food and supplies to the residents and shelter occupants as it became available.

The Belle Glade EOC is primarily concerned with providing services to Belle Glade, but would be provide services anywhere that it's needed, if possible, according to Miller.

All the services to be provided through civil defense are detailed in the manual each member of the center possesses. That manual is updated each year and directly prior to each incident.

Hurricanes provide just one of numerous situations the EOC may become active under, according to Miller.

In each case, the procedures and duties of every city employee is detailed in the manual.

What if evacuation to a shelter becomes necessary?

If you should have to go to a shelter before or during a hurricane, remember:

- Supplies are not provided at the shelter and everyone must bring their own.
- Alcohol and smoking are not permitted in the shelters.
- Pets are not allowed in the shelters and should be boarded with a veterinarian or left at home with plenty of food and water.
- The main gas valve, electrical switch and water valve at home should be turned off before leaving for the shelter.

Every family should have an emergency kit to take to the shelter.

The kit should contain:

- Food that doesn't have to be heated or refrigerated, baby formula (if necessary) and a manual can opener.
- Drinking water. One-half gallon per person per day is recommended.
- Eating utensils.
- Personal toilet articles, sanitary needs and diapers (if necessary).
- Medication—prescription medicines, insulin for diabetics, medication for heart patients.
- Portable radio and batteries. A radio may be the only link with the outside world during a hurricane.
- Flashlight and batteries.
- Blankets, pillows, a sleeping bag and a change of clothing.

- Portable cooler and ice.
- First aid kit.
- Quite entertainment for the children such as books, games, puzzles or cards.

Shelters in Clewiston are Clewiston High School, Clewiston Middle School, Clewiston Primary School and Harlem Academy.

In Labelle, shelters are located at the LaBelle High School, LaBelle Middle School, LaBelle Primary School and the old Daniels School building.

Clewiston Inn Like Fortress During the Year's Storm

(Story from 1948 Clewiston News)

Clewiston Inn became the bustling center of activity and remained so throughout the hurricane. Hundreds of people from Clewiston and the vicinity, as well as storm bound travelers, sought safety from the storm in the "South's Finest Small Hotel."

At the height of the storm, it was the only place in the city with electric lights. Jay Duke, manager of the Inn laid in a big store of lanterns, candles and electric battery lanterns. Only a few hours before the storm struck, a portable electric generator was located. George Weaver, local electrician, had it in the back of his delivery truck. It was installed in the kitchen of the Inn, and cables strung through the big dining room, lobby, and into a large room on the main floor, which was converted into a sick bay for hospital patients and emergency first aid.

Other rooms at the Inn were set aside for patients from Sugarland Hospital. In the absence of an ambulance, the patients were brought to the Inn in an enclosed delivery truck, and transferred to the safety of the sick rooms by stretcher bearers. Meantime, volunteer workers were transferring emergency hospital equipment to the sick bay on the main floor.

Dr. A.B. Johnson, staff surgeon headed the transfer movement, and set up his emergency equipment to handle any accident case that might be brought in. During the entire period of the storm, Dr. Johnson remained on duty, together with Mrs. Helen Peters, superintendent nurse, and several other nurses. A first aid car, equipped to handle on-the-spot injuries was kept ready at the door of the Inn, in case it was needed.

Several volunteer first aid workers stood by during the storm, to man the car.

One team consisted of Al Periman and Bob Locke, whose wife was a patient in one of the sick rooms at the Inn. A second team consisted of Doug Percy, Hendry County Service Officer and Mac Crary of the Clewiston News.

Only three calls for aid came in. Percy and Locke answered the first. A man, storm bound in a trailer near Stockman's Machine Shop, was brought in. A little later Periman and Crary answered a second call to the same place. Mr. & Mrs. Stockman had stayed in their machine shop through the worst of the storm to brace and protect the glass windows in the building. They were all taken to the inn. The third call proved to be a false alarm, when a report said two small children were stranded in an automobile near the laundry. Investigation proved the two children safe.

Only one person was treated for injuries by the aides. On the return trip from the rumor of the stranded children, Crary overtook a man on the street near an abandoned car. He was bleeding from a slash on the cheek and arm. First aid was administered on the spot, but the man, who gave no name, refused to go to the Inn, saying his wife was home alone.

As soon as the wind subsided Thursday morning, three crews of searchers were dispatched from the Inn to bring in injured. Mrs. M.M. Prewitt headed an expedition along South Shore. Highway Patrolman Collier and Red Cross Field Worker Jewel Graves took a route through Hooker's Point, and South. Mac Crary, with a Boy Scout first aid helper, went down the Devil's Garden road about twelve miles. No casualties were found, although every damaged home was carefully searched.
